The second BCIA Bull Sale at the Red House Bull Evaluation Center will be held March 24 at 1:00 p.m.

A total of 46 bulls will be offered, 30 Angus, 12 Polled Hereford, 1 Red Angus, 1 Simmental, 1 Charolais and 1 Horned Hereford.

Appomattox cattlemen should take advantage of these high quality bulls that will be offered. James Bennett, Manager of the Center, says that there is a great deal of interest outside of Virginia. He has received letters and calls from at least seven states.

It's time to get fruit trees sprayed with a dormant oil spray.

Grapes and fruit trees need to be pruned. Checking muscadine grapes last week, I noticed that they have already started to bleed.

Home gardeners can improve the productivity of their garden by using a soil test. The pH of orchards, vineyards and other small fruits is an important consideration. Don't just add lime; know how much is required.

Samuel Martin will be conducting an on-farm research test in order that we can acquire better information about tobacco plant spacing.

This will be a .5 acre plot with three spacings and three replications.

At the recent Annual Meeting of the Lynchburg DHIA the progress made over the past 10 years was presented. The average cow has increased production by 2000 pounds, value of product per cow is up $300, silage in-take is up 6000 pounds per cow, days on pasture is down 30 days and grain feeding is up 800 pounds per cow.

This gives a pretty good overview of what is happening statewide in the dairy industry. It points the way to increased production.

The search for new innovations in the use of agricultural products is constant.

Today's interest in religion and the new informality in carrying, reading and living the BIBLE has led the World Arts Foundation to offer a new hip-pocket size Bible with a cotton denim cover. The Foundation hopes to capture the interest and imagination of today's blue jean generation.

Because of higher prices of plywood and lumber, the economics of pole and frame buildings are changing. Steel frame structures may be more economical for large jobs, over 6000 square feet. Better check the possible savings in costs with your supplier.

* * *

A recent study of characteristics and attitudes of East Tennessee farmers toward lime use shows: one-third of the full or part-time farmers did not know why lime is used, about 40% of all farmers believed that liming in their area did not pay, and nearly ⅔ of all farmers were not aware that nitrogen fertilizer increased soil acidity.

I'd bet that Appomattox farmers are much better informed about lime than those in this study.

Better check pastures for clover stands. Now's the time to add 3 - 4 pounds of ladino or 5-6 pounds of red clover to grass if your clover population is down. Use a grain drill to put in in. Grazing early to keep the grass from competing too strongly with the young seedlings will help in re-establishing clover.

Host The Most With Autumn Olive

By Robert McClenny, Jr.

People who want to attract wildlife conserve soil, beautify odd areas, establish plant barriers or make ornamental plantings, find autumn olive a valuable plant. Thickets or rows of autumn olive furnish food and cover for many kinds of wildlife both birds and mammals. But it is as a producer of food for birds that autumn olive is most outstanding. Birds eat their berries from ripening time in October or November to late winter.

Autumn olive is known by several names. Its scientific name is Elaeagnus Umbellata. It was introduced into this country about 1830 from China or Japan. It is a wide-spreading shrub often growing as high as 10 to 15 feet. The leaves are green with silvery scales. Leaves are shed in the fall exposing the red berries.

In spring the autumn olive has an abundance of sweet-scented flowers. They are small, yellow and trumpet shaped.

It grows well on well drained soil and will not produce many berries when grown in shade. Under favorable conditions, berries could be expected by the third year.

Seedlings should be planted in the early spring 6 to 8 feet apart. If planting in rows, leave 10 - 12 feet between rows. Sod should be removed from 2 feet around each plant. Spread a closed handful of 10-10-10 or similar fertilizer in the bottom of each hole. Cover with about two inches of topsoil before putting the plant in. Mulch each plant with 2 to 4 inches of wood chips, sawdust, or straw.

Keep competing vegetation away from each plant until it becomes well established.

Plants are commercially available through nurseries or through the Virginia Division of Forestry. The Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District has a few plants to donate to introduce it to the area. Anyone interested in planting autumn olive may contact the Appomattox Soil Conservation Service Office.

Those who plant autumn olive will probably be the host with the most for wildlife.

Homemaker Hints

By Rebecca M. Johnson, Extension Agent

The state has recently passed a law stating that milk products must be dated, beginning October 1, 1973. Many dairies are already beginning to date their products, so you should notice this in the stores soon.

The date which is stamped on the container is the last day which the product should be sold. This means the item is still safe to consume as long as you keep it under normal storage conditions, it does not mean that it should not be used after this date. Do not buy the item if the date has passed. The date must be located in a conspicuous place, and be legible and understandable. Cup containers may be labeled with the date on the bottom.

The pull date must be written in one of the following ways: "Jun 1", "1 Jun", "06-01", or "06 01". This law does not apply to milk products bottled in glass containers for home delivery.

Milk and milk products not bearing a "pull date" must not be offered for sale.

The better the lawn food, the better your lawn

TURF BUILDER is the lawn food we recommend most for early spring fertilizing. It releases its nutrients over a prolonged period. So there's no excess surge growth to cause extra mowing and no wasteful leaching away of the nutrients. Instead, TURF BUILDER produces a thicker, greener, sturdier lawn. Lasts longer too, because it's Tri-onized.
